

COMMERCIAL ONE

Thoshlae: The topic today is that this house believes that televisions should be banned from our households.

Kameron: I agree with this statement because of all the violence that young people are exposed to.

Toni: Yeah, but shouldn't it be up to the parents to monitor what children are watching?

Nikki: What about all the commercials that pressure young people to have all the latest toys and clothing?

Kameron: That's right. I think that is unfair marketing.

Thoshlae: Hi. I'm Thoshlae.

Toni: I'm Toni.

Kameron: I'm Kameron.

Nikki: And I'm Nikki.

Toni: If you like hearing both sides of an argument.

Thoslae: Then come and see us at the 3rd Annual Junior Debate Competition.

Kameron: On Saturday, October 9th at Southampton Glebe Primary School.

Nikki: And October 16th at CedarBridge Academy & the finals on the 17th in the Ruth Seaton James Auditorium.

All: See you there!

Sponsored by Consumer Affairs and Cox Hallett Wilkinson.

COMMERCIAL TWO

Catherine: Hey Ivan, I'm excited about being a part of the Junior Debate Competition.

Ivan: Me too Catherine. It's my first time doing this.

Catherine: Why are you doing it?

Ivan: Because you can prove your point strongly, while learning about the world around you. And I love to talk in front of an audience.

Catherine: Well you'll certainly get to do that on October 9th, 16th and 17th at the 3rd Annual Junior Debate Competition.

Ivan: Yeah, it will be at Southampton Glebe Primary school on October 9th and Cedarbridge Academy on October 16th & the finals on the 17th in the Ruth Seaton James Auditorium.

Both: See you there!

Sponsored by Consumer Affairs and Cox Hallett Wilkinson

COMMERCIAL THREE

Arielle: (talking like she is practicing her speech) Let's see. Allowing school children not to wear uniforms could cause a lack of school pride.

Keisha: What are you doing Arielle?

Arielle: I'm doing my research for the debate competition Keisha.

Keisha: Oh yeh!. The 3rd Annual Junior Debate Competition.

Arielle: We may be kids, but we know our facts and we're inviting all our friends and schoolmates to come and see us in action.

Keisha: And this year we've gotten so big, we're having it over three days. On October 9th at Southampton Glebe, October 16th at CedarBridge Academy and the finals on October 17th in Ruth Seaton James Auditorium.

Arielle: And don't forget families are welcome too!

Both: Come and check us out!

Sponsored by Consumer Affairs and Cox Hallett Wilkinson